WASHINGTON—Lansing told the Senate Foreign Relations committee today that the American plan for a League of Nations was "not pressed" at Versailles, and was never presented to full peace conference. He said the draft was made by President Wilson, and added that a copy might still be in the President's possession.

The officers and men of the fleet completed their preparations today for entering the first home port on the Pacific under a banner of flowers early tomorrow.

PARIS—The Rumanians have served an ultimatum on the Hungarian government. It makes demands far in excess of the armistice terms, and gives the Hungarians until today to comply with them. The Czechoslovak and British troops are on their way to Budapest to participate in the occupation of the city with Rumanians. French troops will also take part in the occupation of the city.

WASHINGTON—President Wilson will address Congress in person tomorrow to make recommendations for legislation designed to aid in reducing the high cost of living. It is understood that anti-trust suits against big meat packers will be instituted immediately by the Department of Justice.

WASHINGTON—The high prices of shoes are declared to be due to excessive profits taken by every factor in the shoe production in Alaska in a report by the Federal trade commission to Congress made public today. The packers are charged with having begun pyramid shoe prices by an unwarranted increase in the price of hides, the supply of which they control.

SEATTLE—C. E. Higgins, age 19, of the Canadian Overseas Army was shot and killed while breaking out of the Monroe Reformatory.

SEATTLE—The sale of army purchased food supplies began yesterday afternoon.

LOS ANGELES—Confronted with evidence pointing to him as the man who placed dynamite and oil which wrecked and set fire to the home of Oscar Hawler, former assistant attorney general, Sunday morning, Charles McGwire assistant chief engineer of the Los Angeles Board of Utilities, eluded detectives who were guarding him and jumped from a window in the office of District Attorney Thomas Lee Woolwine on the eleventh floor of the Hall of Records, at midnight last night to the pavement below. WASHINGTON—A Pacific fleet means belated recognition of the Pacific coast and the independence of the Pacific ocean, state-gedly and commercially, said Senator Phelan. There will always be danger in Pacific waters until the Japanese question is settled. The Hawaiian territory is now a Japanese colony, and California is fast becoming one.

WASHINGTON—Secretary told the Senate Commerce committee that he proposed a new cable to the Orient via Alaska as proposed in the Jones bill to cost thirty million instead of eight million, but that it should be constructed at once despite the cost.

PARIS—The Peace conference was advised today that the Hungarian cabinet headed by Jules Peidt had been overthrown and that Archduke Joseph had established a ministry in Budapest. Rumanian forces are reported to have crossed in the business section of Budapest, seizing supplies for shipment to Rumania. Messages to the conference regarding cabinet stated that members of the social democratic government while they were in session at the national palace, were arrested by the Hungarian police. The coup was carried out without disorder.

SEATTLE—The Alaska Aerial Transportation company, which has been incorporated for a half million dollars, has placed orders for three De Haviland biplanes, at a cost of $50,000 each, together with two smaller planes for each of the large ones, and as soon as they are ready for delivery they will be put into service in Alaska. Each of the large planes will carry six tons of freight and 20 passengers. The first of these will be sent to Alaska in October and the others will go north after the first of next year. The main line of operation will be from Valdez to Fairbanks, with other branch lines running to Nome, Arctic points and Siberia. Each of the big machines will have four Liberty motors and will have a speed of 100 miles an hour.

The company believes it will be able to get the mail contracts for handling all the mail for Interior Alaska and that the company will be able to solve the unsatisfactory mail conditions which trouble Alaskans at this time.

If the undertaking is as successful as the company officials believe it will be, they intend to put on a number of other machines, to cover the vast expanses of territory which are now almost inaccessible.

A returned Canadian soldier recently made a record trip to the Yukon. He was just seventeen days on the road from the day of embarking at England until he reached Dawson.

Forty Quarts Booze Found in a Trunk At Ketchikan

Yesterday was another "still hunt," and the federal officers after having brought Simondson to conviction by a fine of $300 began to smell booze again and going straight back to the cabin on the creek, where they found the Simondson outfit, he found another man had taken possession of the cabin and had a trunk with him. When asked if he was going to live there the man said "yes," and that he had carpenter's tools in the trunk. The officer commanded him to open the trunk and the contents consisted of about 40 quarts of whiskey, so it is stated. The Times reporter asked for more news at the courthouse this morning and was told there was none. We happened to know there was news as the smell of the booze caravan struck the Times office about as soon as it did the federal official yesterday afternoon.—Times.

"What Would I Do If It Were My Child"

What would I do, if it were my child? That was the question put to the group of people which met at the Rex Theatre on Monday night to hear the Rev. Thomas Jenkins, of Portland, speak on the need of the hour in Armenia and Syria. Through those present the question goes out to the whole community. Mr. Jenkins has been sent to Alaska this summer to interest our people in the four hundred thousand orphan children of Armenia and Syria who, beside being parentless, are homeless. In addition to these children there are half a million of adult refugees who are homeless and foodless. All of these have to be fed by America till they can return home and make a harvest for themselves. Not till the Peace Conference has determined the future of Turkey and the mandatory for America can these poor people return to what they called home. Food and clothing are as essential for the life of these folk as for Alaska. They can grow nothing till peace is restored and conditions stabilized. Without our help they will die. Mr. Hoover says do what we will, 200,000 will die of starvation this year, but if we will help, the other 500,000 helpless ones can be saved. If one of them belonged to me, then, would I help? Of course I would. To feed and clothe one child one day costs 17 cents (not a fat existence surely); for one month, $5.00; for one year, $60.00. Almost anybody could take an extra child at that price. The local committee consisting of Wm. Patterson, chairman; G. W. Upshaw, treasurer; Charles Benjamin, M. O. Johnson, Mrs. J. W. Stedman, Mrs. John Grant and Mrs. J. H. Mason will be glad to tell you how you can help this crying need of the hour.

Alien Owner Law Now to Be Enforced

The enforcement of the law prohibiting aliens from owning and operating fishing boats plying in American waters is one of the main reasons of E. P. Walker, of the Bureau of Fisheries with head office at Juneau, for making the trip to Ketchikan on the Sub-chaser 309, arriving yesterday.

"We are seeking to strictly enforce this law, which is being violated constantly," said Mr. Walker last night, "and will indict all offenders. They are punishable by fine and imprisonment."

Mr. Walker left this morning on Sub-chaser 294 for Wrangell and other points where he will look over the fishing situation.

"Word has come to me of the seizure of a net stretching across the entire mouth of a creek near Petersburg," said Mr. Walker, "It is things like that which force us to patrol these waters so carefully."

In speaking of the practice of jigging salmon in the creeks Mr. Walker said, "The practice of jigging or hooking salmon in Ketchikan creek is no longer legal, it being prohibited by the Order of December 21, 1918." He also said that no fishing was permitted within 200 yards of the mouth of the creek.—Chronicle

WORK FOR MEXICO REFUGEES

Federal Official Suggests Many Occupations in Which They Would Be of Exceptional Usefulness.

"Living in the various cities of the Mexican border are many thousands of Mexicans," says Dr. Joseph T. Ware, federal employment director for Tennessee, "of the middle and higher classes, who are refugees from their own country on account of political conditions. These Mexicans are educated, many of them highly so. Most of them are unemployed, partly because their knowledge of English is limited and partly because they do not know how to get in touch with the business men who might be glad to utilize their services. Among them are to be found accountants, bookkeepers, clerks, timekeepers and former government employees.

"In addition to these occupations, these people could be used in the lighter manual occupations and as foremen where gangs of Mexican laborers are employed. With our business men taking more and more interest in foreign trade, particularly with the Spanish-speaking countries, comes an increasing demand for clerks who can speak and write the Spanish language, and among these people are many who could qualify for such positions."

MIHT BE BRITAIN'S KING.

How many persons know that, if the British crown had descended by strict hereditary right instead of by authority of parliament, Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria, who has commanded a German army in the field throughout the greater part of the war, would be king instead of George V? Through his mother, who was a princess of Austria-Moldova, he is the ranking descendant of the Stuart kings, but his ancestors were ruled out of court by parliament some two centuries ago, because they, like James II, whom parliament deposed, were Roman Catholics. There exists today a curious society called the Order of the White Rose, the members of which recognize the Bavarian prince as the true king of England, the real vessel of the divine right to rule! — Youth's Companion.

"You make two," retorted Bang.

THE PACIFIST CLUB.

Immigration Commissioner Howe of New York denied the other day the charge that he was a pacifist.

"In fact," he said, laughing, "I'm like the chap who was asked if he would join a pacifist club.

"Will I? Sure I will!" this chap answered eagerly. "What pacifist are you going to club first?"

Officers Find $5000 Worth Beaver Pelts

FAIRBANKS—The latest reports received from the Tolovana telegraph station indicate that probably more than $5,000 worth of beaver pelts have been discovered by Deputy U. S. Marshal Hagen and Special Fur Warden Foster, who are now engaged in the examination of 42 sacks of furs in the postoffice at that place, alleged to be the property of the Vachons. So far, less than half of the parcels have been entered. The search will be carried out completely.

In an interview given a representative of the Citizen last night, United States Marshal L. T. Erwin said: "I had not intended to give the search for contraband furs to either local newspaper. But my attention being called to the articles appearing in the New-Miner this evening, I feel that it is my duty to make a plain statement of all the facts connected therewith.

Information was recently received at this office, and by Mr. Foster, at Nenana, leading to the conviction that contraband furs were being shipped from the country. Warden Foster swore out a search warrant and I took the matter up by telegraph with the attorney general with the result that the postmaster general instructed the postmaster at Tolovana to permit the search.

"Thirty sacks of furs are known to have been shipped before the arrival of these instructions. Forty-two sacks which remained were seized and are now being examined. The first sack opened contained 16 beaver pelts. The first 10 sacks were found to hold 165 beaver pelts and the latest report received by this office from Deputy Hagen says that from 22 sacks which he has entered there have been secured a total of 343 of these skins."

The average of the parcels examined shows to have been slightly more than 17 pelts to the sack. Less than half of the sacks seized have been examined. Out of the total 42 sacks, 22 are yet to be opened.—Citizen.

New Road to be Built to Hyder

A road from Hyder, opening up the heart of the surrounding mining district will be built as soon as can be arranged by the Alaska Road Commission, according to Major W. H. Waugh, president of that organization, who returned to Ketchikan last night from Hyder where he has been looking over the ground.

"There is already a road through the district 16 miles long, built by the Pioneer Gold Mining company," said Major Waugh in discussing the situation. It was built at a cost of $85,000. Our road will continue along the same course. We will gravel over the present road and make it wide, solid and permanent."

The new road will go for 11 miles along the present one, stopping approximately a mile from the Canadian border.

Major Waugh is stopping at the Stedman and will continue on to Juneau by the next boat, the Alameda, which leaves Saturday. Meanwhile he will continue to oversee the road building which is being done locally by the commission.

The survey of the new road toward the power house and new city park was finished before the major left for Hyder, he says, and continues for a large portion of the distance along the present road, approaching nearer to the creek in several places and crossing the stream in an entirely different place.

The work of clearing will probably be the extent of the operations on the Hyder road this fall. Major Waugh stated.—Chronicle.

DISPATCH RIDERS OF TODAY

Successful Use of Airplanes in a War of Movement Was Strikingly Demonstrated.

As we drove up the hill near Nancy on September 12 to the nearest corps headquarters a two-seater airplane coming from the St. Mihiel front volplaned down toward us, William Slavens McNutt writes in Collier's. We could see the observer in the rear seat standing up and looking down over the fuselage. As the plane buzzed over us not more than 200 feet above, the observer swung his arm and a small white object with a two-foot linen tail spread out behind the speeding plane and came to earth like an arrow. An orderly picked it up and sprinted with it to headquarters.

It was a report from the front not ten minutes old. It would have taken a foot runner the entire day to collect the material in that report and return with it; it would have taken a dispatch rider on a motorcycle hours; it took the airman minutes, and as the orderly picked up the message the plane above was banking around and heading again for the battle line.

Planes are more than the eyes of the army in a war of movement. They are the means of communication as well. The army that owns the sky holds a short and certain mortgage on the earth below.

NOW JUST PLAIN "BILL."

William II had more than fifty titles—more probably than any European sovereign except the Austrian emperor. The two stupidest nations! Not Russia and Germany! Not even Nigeria and Timbuctoo! But—Great Britain and United States!

Now, what do you think about that? You don't believe it? They are the most enlightened nations?

They are and they are not!

In some things, yes! In one great vital essential of these vital times, no!

For Great Britain and the United States are embarking upon the most colossal world competition in all history with the wrong kind of equipment!

They are tackling world trade with the wrong tools!

Two hundred and twelve nations and countries are doing business together under the simple practical and universally understood metric system.

Two nations are attempting to do business with the 212 under the old-fashioned, cumbersome, obsolete German system.

These two old-fashioned, behind-the-times, dozing nations are Great Britain and the United States!

And the system they are using was discarded as worthless by Germany half a century ago!

The two greatest (?) nations in the world are trying to do business with Germany's cast-offs!

This, no doubt, is precisely as Germany had planned. Having tied a weight to the heels of her greatest trade adversaries, this cleverly cunning country removes her own weights and skims into world commerce on the wings of a system invented by an Englishman—James Watt in 1783.

Think of the irony of it: An Englishman gives the world the logical, decimal system of measurement which Germany adopts to her tremendous acceleration in commerce and power and enrichment by billions of dollars. In return Germany fastens upon the land of the Englishman to whom she owes so much the cumbersome jumble of quantity expression that is a terrible handicap to Great Britain in her world enterprises.

But the real tragedy is this

The United States slavishly follows Britannia in her weights and measures and retains them while all the rest of the world, except these two, adopt the decimal system which everybody understands!

It is under this tremendous handicap that the United States enters world trade. In all her dealings with Orient, Oceania, Latin America and the remainder of the world outside of British possessions this country must do business with two sets of measurements—the metric, to satisfy her customers; the German, to humor the obstinacy of her own manufacturers. But that obstinacy is calculated to cost those manufacturers tens of millions of dollars annually in lost time and lost orders.

Two Alleged Deserters Taken Off Catherine D

"Otto and Alfred Gehrke held by you are deserters. Turn them over to the nearest military authorities," was the word received tonight by wire from the head of the Department of Justice at Seattle by Walter Sharpe, deputy U. S. Marshal at Ketchikan.

The orders were direct from the Attorney General at Washington, D. C., who has acted on the case of the two men since their arrest here a few days ago from the Catherine D.

Orders were received by Mr. Sharpe to take the men off the Catherine D just before she came into port on July 29. He immediately arrested them and put them in the U. S. jail where they have remained ever since.

The accusation against the men, according to the orders received at that time, was that they were slackers, but by the action of the

CHARLES H. FLORY

NEW FOREST SUPERVISOR

Comes North With an Open Mind, Anxious to Learn the Needs of the Country and to Help in Presenting to the Proper Authorities Such Recommendations as Will Be of Assistance in Bringing About Desired Regulations and Laws.

Announcement by Charles H. Flory, supervisor of the national forests in Alaska, of the policy he purposes to pursue with reference to the Territory and the aid he hopes to be able to render in its development is gratifying. It is thoroughly constructive and will certainly work to the benefit of Alaska and the nation.

Mr. Flory comes to the north with an open mind, anxious to learn the needs of the country and to help in presenting to the proper authorities such recommendations as will be of assistance in bringing about desired regulations and laws. Many changes are needed and there is no doubt that the new head of the Alaska division of the Forestry bureau will not require many months to learn them.

In his announced intention of becoming well acquainted with conditions before making any move he is pursuing a course that will commend itself to all. To make proper recommendations he must familiarize himself with the people, the resources, the possibilities and the means of bringing about conditions such as will permit the opening of new industries.

Without reference to the forestry department, it might be noted that many federal officials who have served in Alaska came to the country believing that they were the government, that their opinions were final on all questions, and with no desire to cooperate with the people most interested. Mr. Flory, coming in an entirely different frame of mind, Alaska is to be congratulated and nothing but good can come of his presence in the country. —Chronicle.

The Quadra cannery of the Northwestern Fisheries is ahead of the pack of this time last year, according to O. A. Larson, superintendent, who is at the Stedman today.

"I have no idea as to what is going to happen from now on," said Mr. Larson, when asked about prospects for the remainder of the season, "but so far we have done very well."—Ketchikan Chronicle.

Attorney General, who has considered the case since their arrest, they have been termed "deserters" and will be turned over to military authorities as the case is now out of civil jurisdiction.

"The military authorities at Haines will probably take the men," said Mr. Sharpe last night.

It is alleged that these two men have been in Alaska for the last two and a half years dodging military service. They are said to have traveled from one place to another in order that no trace could be found of them. Finally they ended up at the P. A. F. cannery at Sand Point and were taken off at the end of the season to be brought to Seattle on the Catherine D. It was while on their way to Seattle that they were intercepted.—Ketchikan Chronicle.

ARE YOU GUILTY?

A FARMER carrying an express package from a big mail-order house was accosted by a local dealer.

"Why didn't you buy that bill of goods from me? I could have saved you the express, and besides you would have been patronizing a home store, which helps pay the taxes and builds up this locality."

The farmer looked at the merchant a moment and then said:

"Why don't you patronize your home paper and advertise? I read it and didn't know that you had the stuff I have here."

We are in receipt of a request for a copy of the Messenger from the Wrangell Sentinel, published at Wrangell, Alaska. The letter is dated June 7 and was received June 23. A noticeable feature is that the letter head used is right up to date and would be a credit to any New York paper.

The above favorable comment was not influenced by friendship or old acquaintance. The editor of the Marshall Messenger never heard of the publisher of the Sentinel until he received our letter requesting a copy of his paper.

Big Time at Big Bay

One of the most enjoyable events of the summer was the picnic at Big Bay, Zarembo island. A merry party of about 50 persons left Wrangell on the Hazel B No. 4 at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. The first stop was made at King George creek where the passengers witnessed the lifting of a fish trap owned by Grant & Darwell.

From King George creek the boat steered for Big Bay where the party found everything just right for a picnic. There was a nice beach with water the right depth for bathing and swimming. A fresh water stream was nearly so full of fish that the fishermen say they had to hide behind trees while baiting their hooks to keep the fish from jumping from the stream and taking the bait from their fingers.

Several campfires were built where coffee was made and "weenies" roasted. There were lunches enough to have fed twice the number present. The afternoon was given up to a general good time. Some young people danced, others went swimming, others promenaded. And of course there had to be a little spooning in order that none of the attributes of a real picnic should be lacking.

The voyage home was one of the most delightful imaginable, with the gay party singing merrily all the way. Just before arriving in port all joined in singing "The End of a Perfect Day."

Frame Launches Into Literature

John W. Frame, the well known publisher and pioneer, is arranging for the publication of a monthly magazine to be devoted to the welfare and up-building of the Pioneers of Alaska as an organization. Mr. Frame states that it is his purpose as Grand Historian of the Order to gather from the newspapers of the territory all the early and current history possible. The new publication will be called "The Alaska Argonaut," a most appropriate title.

Mr. Frame, the editor and publisher of the proposed publication is one of the best posted men in the Order to handle the history of the men who developed Alaska and will undoubtedly make a success of the venture.

The Pioneers of the Territory are fast joining the great majority, and much valuable history is going with them which should be preserved for future generations. Its compilation is a duty to the future generations.—Gleam.

The wife of a certain doctor had advertised for a girl to do the housework, and was showing an applicant over the house. She had been very liberal in her promises of privileges, and it looked as though the two were about to come to an agreement, when the girl suddenly asked:

"Do you do your own stretchin'?" "Do we do our own what?" asked the puzzled mistress.

"Stretchin,'" repeated the girl, solemnly. "Do you put all the food on the table at dinner and stretch for it, or do I have to shuffle it round?"

It is roughly estimated that there are 100,000 fatal accidents in the United States annually, in a large number of which instances death could be averted by timely First Aid treatment given by some instructed layman while the doctor is being sought.—Red Cross Bulletin.
